HOW TO USE THIS PLAYBOOK

Your move-back command centre

Returning to India is not one decision — it is fifty smaller ones spread across your job, your bank accounts, your retirement plan, your taxes in two countries, your property and your family. Miss the sequencing and the mistakes can be expensive: an unnecessary 401(k) cash-out, a missed RNOR opportunity, a closed U.S. credit history that is hard to rebuild, or a tax filing you did not know you still owed.

This playbook walks through all twenty areas in a sensible order. Each chapter gives you a short brief, a tick-box checklist, and — where a real choice is involved — a Decision Point that links to the free NRItOUSA.com calculator or guide that helps you put numbers behind it. Work top to bottom, or jump to the chapter you need. Print it, or keep it open on your phone.

⚠ Before you use this playbook

This playbook is a decision checklist, not professional advice. U.S.-India tax, immigration, FEMA/RBI, retirement, and Social Security rules can change and can vary by citizenship, visa status, green card history, state residency, account type, and family situation. Use this guide to organize your questions, then verify current rules with official IRS, SSA, USCIS, FinCEN, Income Tax India, RBI/FEMA, and bank sources before taking action.

Last reviewed: 2026. Always confirm current rules before acting.

▶ Start with the two questions that change everything

Your move date and your India tax-residency timeline (RNOR) influence many financial and tax choices that follow — when to sell property, when to consider a Roth conversion, when to realise gains, and when your U.S. income may first become taxable in India. Pin these down early.

A BIRD'S-EYE VIEW OF THE MOVE

Return-to-India timeline

Every family's situation differs, so treat this as a general sequence rather than a fixed rulebook. Dates shift with visa status, employer timelines, and the Indian financial year — confirm the specifics for your case.

12+ months before move

- Model RNOR / tax residency and pick a target move window
- Decide U.S. home: sell vs. rent
- Review 401(k), IRA, brokerage, and equity (RSU/ESPP/options)
- Start school and city research in India

6 months before move

- Confirm visa / green card / OCI strategy
- Review bank and brokerage non-resident policies
- Build a tax reserve and relocation budget
- Start collecting documents and statements

3 months before move

- Plan final paycheck, bonus, PTO, and RSU/options timing
- Review COBRA vs. India health insurance
- Prepare FBAR / FATCA / India tax records
- Confirm U.S. phone, MFA, and account access

30 days before move

- Download all records (7 years of returns, statements, policies)
- Move MFA off U.S. SMS where possible
- Confirm transfers, rent/sale, utilities, and insurance
- Keep a U.S. bank and a no-fee credit card active if appropriate

First 90 days in India

- Complete PAN / Aadhaar / KYC / UPI setup where applicable
- Confirm bank-account redesignation requirements with your bank
- Put India health insurance in force
- Keep your U.S. tax calendar visible
- Avoid rushing into Indian mutual funds or insurance-investment products before understanding tax impact

i Timing note

RNOR is an income-tax concept; bank-account status is a FEMA concept; and immigration status is separate again. They do not always line up. Confirm each with the right authority or advisor rather than assuming one status controls the others.

6-12 MONTHS BEFORE THE MOVE

Planning your timeline

The move-back is a project with a critical path. Lock your dates first, because your employment end date and your India arrival date set the clock on taxes, residency, notice periods, lease-breaks and school terms.

6-12 mo

ideal planning runway

~2-3 yrs*

possible RNOR window

2 tax systems

to reconcile

- ☐ Fix a target move date and a final employment day — much of the plan schedules backwards from these.
- ☐ Build a relocation budget: shipping/air freight, one-way flights, India housing deposit, a 3-6 month emergency buffer, and a tax reserve.
- ☐ Confirm each family member's immigration status and travel documents (passport validity 6+ months, visas, OCI/U.S. passports for children).
- ☐ Decide the fate of your U.S. home and car early — sale timelines can run in months, not weeks.
- ☐ Map your India landing: city, interim housing, schools, and which relative or contact is your local anchor.
- ☐ Open a shared tracker for every account, policy and document you'll need to close, keep or transfer.

i What RNOR may (and may not) do

RNOR status may reduce Indian tax exposure on certain foreign income for a limited period after returning, depending on your prior India stay history, arrival date, source of income, and whether income is received in India. It is not an automatic shield on all foreign income.

🚩 Decision Point — time the move around your India tax residency

Arriving a few weeks either side of a financial-year boundary can change whether your first years back qualify as RNOR (when certain foreign income may remain outside India's tax net, depending on the facts). *Duration depends on your facts and prior India presence.

► Run your dates through the RNOR / Tax-Residency Calculator

⚡ If the move is being forced by a layoff

On H-1B you may have a limited window to act. Separate the immigration clock from the relocation clock so neither surprises you.

CLOSE IT OUT CLEANLY

Employment & your final paycheck

Your employer is the source of documents you'll want for years — collect them while you still have a badge, an active email and a friendly HR contact.

- ☐ Give notice per your contract; confirm your last working day and final-settlement date in writing.
- ☐ Download final payslips, the latest and prior-year W-2s, and an employment-verification letter.
- ☐ Get written detail on RSU/ESPP/options: vesting, blackout, exercise windows and post-termination expiry.
- ☐ Clarify bonus, PTO payout, and any sign-on/relocation clawbacks that leaving may trigger.
- ☐ Decide on COBRA vs. a marketplace/India plan for the coverage gap — note the election deadline (often 60 days).
- ☐ Roll over or note your 401(k) and HSA details (plan administrator, login, balances) before access is cut.
- ☐ Save copies of everything to personal storage; you will likely lose corporate email and SSO on your last day.

→ Decision Point — don't let vested equity expire by accident

Post-termination exercise windows for options are often short (commonly around 90 days, but check your plan). Map every grant's expiry against your move date and your cash position before you hand back the laptop.

THE HIGHEST-STAKES CHAPTER

Tax planning across the U.S. & India

Depending on your citizenship, green card status, visa status, and tax residency, you may file a final, dual-status, or part-year U.S. return — or continue annual U.S. filing after moving. U.S. citizens and some green card holders may continue to have U.S. filing obligations even while living in India. The goal is to avoid double taxation using the DTAA and foreign tax credits, and to stay compliant with reporting that can follow you abroad.

RNOR

may reduce foreign-income tax

DTAA

may avoid double tax

FBAR/8938

may apply abroad

U.S. side

- ☐ Plan your final, dual-status, or part-year federal and state returns; confirm residency-termination dates where relevant.
- ☐ Gather W-2s, 1099s, brokerage 1099-B, K-1s and full investment cost-basis records.
- ☐ Understand FBAR (FinCEN 114) and FATCA (Form 8938) — these may continue after you leave if thresholds are met.
- ☐ Watch PFIC exposure if you hold or plan to hold Indian mutual funds while a U.S. taxpayer.
- ☐ If you'll keep U.S. rental property or a business, plan for continued U.S. filing on that income.

→ Decision Point — will your India accounts create U.S. paperwork?

NRE, NRO, FDs, brokerage, and Indian mutual funds may trigger FBAR, Form 8938, or PFIC reporting if you remain a U.S. person for tax purposes. Check before balances grow.

► Run the FBAR / FATCA risk checker

i Quick reporting check

- FBAR / FinCEN Form 114: U.S. persons generally must file if the aggregate value of foreign financial accounts exceeds $10,000 at any time during the calendar year.
- Form 8938 / FATCA: thresholds depend on filing status and whether you live in the U.S. or abroad — check before balances grow.
- Indian accounts such as NRE, NRO, FDs, brokerage, and mutual funds may create U.S. reporting obligations if you remain a U.S. person for tax purposes.

⚠ State tax residency can be sticky

Some states — especially CA, NY, NJ, and IL — make it harder to end residency, and may continue to treat you as a resident after you leave. Confirm your state exit rules before leaving.

India side

- ☐ Track your India residency status (NRI → RNOR → ROR) for each financial year after arrival.
- ☐ Line up PAN, and coordinate account redesignation timing with your bank (see the banking chapter).
- ☐ Map India-source income (rent, FD interest, capital gains) and any TDS you may later reclaim.
- ☐ Keep Form 10F, a tax-residency certificate, and 15CA/15CB paperwork ready for repatriations.

→ Decision Point — claim treaty relief instead of paying twice

Where the same income is taxed in both countries, the DTAA and the Foreign Tax Credit may reduce or eliminate the double hit — but generally only if you compute and document it correctly.

► Estimate relief with the DTAA / Foreign-Tax-Credit Calculator

KEEP A U.S. FOOTPRINT; SET UP INDIA

Banking on both sides

Don't reflexively close everything American. A maintained U.S. account and card can be hard to reopen from abroad and are useful for lingering tax refunds, brokerage links and future travel.

- ☐ Decide which U.S. checking/savings to keep open (ideally no-fee, no minimum, good online/app access).
- ☐ Update the address, phone and email on kept accounts to ones you'll still control from India.
- ☐ Enable full online/mobile access and confirm international login works before you fly.
- ☐ Set up or update your India NRE / NRO accounts; understand which income each is meant to hold.
- ☐ Coordinate NRE/NRO redesignation with your bank based on FEMA residential status, your return-to-India intent, and bank documentation rules — do not rely only on income-tax RNOR/ROR status.
- ☐ Note where refunds, dividends and any Social Security could still land, and keep that account alive.

⚠ Banking status and tax residency are not the same

India income-tax residency categories such as NRI, RNOR, and ROR do not always line up perfectly with FEMA/banking residential status. Confirm with your bank and tax advisor before converting or redesignating NRE/NRO accounts.

→ Decision Point — which account for which rupee?

NRE interest is generally tax-free in India but may still be taxable in the U.S.; NRO typically holds India-source income and is taxed in India. Getting the mapping right helps avoid surprise tax and reporting.

BEFORE YOU BECOME A NON-RESIDENT

Investments & brokerage

Many U.S. brokerages restrict or freeze accounts held by non-U.S. residents. Sort out access, beneficiaries and any planned sales while your U.S. address is still valid.

- ☐ Ask each brokerage its non-resident policy — can you hold, trade, or only sell? Get it in writing.
- ☐ Update beneficiaries and transfer-on-death designations across all accounts.
- ☐ Review whether to realise gains/losses before leaving, considering U.S. and India treatment and your residency timeline.
- ☐ Consolidate scattered accounts; record logins, statements and full cost basis.
- ☐ Think twice before buying Indian mutual funds while still a U.S. taxpayer (PFIC complexity).
- ☐ Revisit your long-term split between U.S. and India assets given currency and inflation.

→ Decision Point — the Indian mutual fund trap

Indian mutual funds are generally treated as PFICs for U.S. tax purposes, with complex forms and tax treatment. Understand this before you invest.

► Read: the PFIC / Indian mutual fund trap

→ Where should new money go — U.S. or India?

Currency, inflation, taxes and where you'll actually spend all pull in different directions. Frame the trade-offs deliberately.

AVOID THE MOST EXPENSIVE REFLEX

401(k) & employer retirement

Your 401(k) does not vanish when you leave the U.S. Cashing it out early is one of the costliest reflexes for returning NRIs — tax, a possible penalty, and lost compounding can stack up fast.

10%

possible extra tax if <59½*

Varies

withholding by plan/treaty

direct 401(k)→NPS/PPF pipe

Your four real options

- ☐ Leave it invested in the U.S. plan (if allowed) and let it compound in USD.
- ☐ Roll over to an IRA for more control and investment choice.
- ☐ Roth conversion — potentially during a lower-income year — to help manage lifetime tax.
- ☐ Cash out — often the least attractive option before 59½ due to tax, a possible penalty, and lost growth.

i How withholding and penalties actually work

Withholding can vary by plan, distribution type, tax residency, treaty documentation, and whether the distribution is eligible for rollover. Early distributions before age 59½ may also trigger a 10% additional tax unless an exception applies. *Confirm your specifics before acting.

→ Decision Point — cash out now vs. keep compounding

Model the after-tax, after-penalty lump sum against leaving it invested in USD toward retirement. The gap is often large. Do not reflexively cash out your 401(k).

► Run the 401\(k\) Cash-Out vs. Keep Calculator

→ “Can I just move it to NPS or PPF?”

There is no direct transfer pipe from a U.S. 401(k) into Indian retirement accounts — but there are legitimate approaches worth understanding.

A LOW-INCOME YEAR CAN BE AN OPPORTUNITY

IRA — Roth vs. Traditional

Beyond the 401(k), IRAs give you control — and the years around your move (often lower U.S. income) can be a good time to consider strategic Roth conversions. Whether it helps depends on your facts.

- ☐ Inventory all IRAs: Traditional, Roth, SEP, and any inherited IRAs, with balances and custodians.
- ☐ Consider whether a Roth conversion in a lower-income transition year may lower lifetime tax.
- ☐ Confirm your custodian still services non-resident IRA holders and update contact details.
- ☐ Refresh beneficiaries and understand distribution rules before and after age 59½.
- ☐ Coordinate IRA moves with your 401(k) plan so the whole retirement picture is consistent.

→ Decision Point — Roth or Traditional as an NRI?

The right answer generally depends on your current vs. future tax rates in both countries and your residency timing.

CREDITS YOU EARNED, BENEFITS TO VERIFY

Social Security & Medicare

Your work credits don't disappear when you move. But three separate things decide what you actually receive: whether you qualify, what the benefit is worth, and whether SSA will pay it to you in India. Most people check only the first — and there is no U.S.-India totalization agreement to fall back on.

40 credits

generally qualifies you

35 years

is the benefit formula

25.5%

typical non-citizen withholding

Part A — Do you qualify?

- ☐ Check your credit count at ssa.gov. 40 credits generally qualifies you for retirement benefits from age 62.
- ☐ Understand how credits are earned: a maximum of 4 per calendar year, based on your covered earnings for the year — not on how many months you worked.
- ☐ Note that credits never expire. Once you have 40, you keep them for life, even if you never work in the U.S. again.
- ☐ Note there is no U.S.-India totalization treaty, so the two systems do not combine credits — your EPF/EPS years cannot top up a short U.S. record.
- ☐ If you are close to 40, count precisely before fixing your exit date, and confirm your final year's credits have posted to your earnings record.

i “40 credits” and “the 10-year rule” are the same rule

These are not two separate tests. Social Security counts work credits, and 40 credits takes a minimum of about 10 years to earn — which is why it is often described as a 10-year rule. It is about covered work, not how long you physically lived in the U.S. There is no additional residency test to qualify for a retirement benefit on your own record.

► Decision Point — are you leaving a few credits short?

If you are within a year or two of 40, staying employed slightly longer — or timing your exit after the calendar year turns — can be the difference between a lifetime benefit and none at all. Credits are all-or-nothing at 40.

► Read: do you keep Social Security if you return to India?

Part B — What will it actually be worth?

- ☐ Understand the formula: SSA averages your highest 35 years of indexed earnings. With fewer than 35 years of U.S. work, the missing years count as zero.
- ☐ Recognise what that means for a returning NRI: roughly 10 U.S. years means about 25 zeros in the average. The benefit is real, but far smaller than a full U.S. career's.
- ☐ Decide your claiming age: earliest 62 (permanently reduced), full retirement age 67 for those born 1960 or later, and delayed credits up to 70.
- ☐ Keep your SSA online login, earnings record and mailing details current — an earnings error is far easier to fix while the employer still exists.

⚠ The number on your my Social Security portal is not your number

The estimate on the portal generally assumes you keep earning at your current rate until full retirement age. If you stop U.S. work at 9 or 10 years, the real benefit will be materially lower than the figure shown. Do not size a relocation decision, or a retirement plan, off that screen.

🚩 Decision Point — still employed? Every extra U.S. year buys twice

An additional year of U.S. earnings replaces a zero in the 35-year average, so it raises the benefit directly — and it also protects the 40-credit threshold and the payments-abroad exception that follows.

► Model the difference with the NRI Wealth Checkup

Part C — Will SSA actually pay you in India?

- ☐ If you are a U.S. citizen: benefits can generally be paid to you in India indefinitely.
- ☐ If you are not a U.S. citizen (including green card holders): under the alien non-payment provision, benefits generally stop from the 7th month after six full consecutive calendar months outside the U.S. — unless an exception applies.
- ☐ Know your exception: India is on SSA's Country List 4. Citizens of List 4 countries can keep receiving payments abroad if the worker earned at least 40 credits, or lived in the U.S. at least 10 years.

- ☐ If payments are ever suspended, know the reinstatement rule: you must be back in the U.S. for one full calendar month — the entire month, not 30 days spanning two months.
- ☐ Check your spouse and children separately. Non-citizen dependants and survivors claiming on your record generally face an additional 5-year U.S. residency requirement — five years in the U.S. during which the relationship with you already existed.
- ☐ Set up how you'll be paid: SSA supports direct deposit to an Indian bank (Form SSA-1199-IN, using your IFSC, credited in rupees), or you can keep a U.S. account alive and receive it there.
- ☐ Diarise Form SSA-7162, the proof-of-life questionnaire SSA mails to beneficiaries abroad. Return it within 60 days — unreturned forms are a common reason payments stop.
- ☐ Keep your address, bank details and contact information current with SSA and your regional Federal Benefits Unit — especially after you give up your U.S. phone number.

⚠ The trap is usually the family, not the worker

Workers with 40 credits are generally fine. The people who get caught are non-citizen spouses and children, who must clear the extra 5-year concurrent-relationship test before benefits on your record can be paid to them abroad. Check this before you assume family benefits will follow you home.

🚩 Decision Point — will you actually collect Social Security in India?

The 40-credit rule, your citizenship status, Country List 4, and your family's separate test all have to line up. Get clear before you count on it.

► Read: do you keep Social Security if you return to India?

Part D — What the tax looks like

- ☐ Non-U.S. citizens living abroad: SSA generally withholds a flat 30% on 85% of the benefit — an effective 25.5% — reported on Form SSA-1042S. For a non-resident this is normally a final tax, not a refundable prepayment.
- ☐ Note that India is not on the treaty-exempt list for U.S. Social Security, so the 25.5% is not reduced.
- ☐ On the India side, the U.S.-India DTAA (Article 20(2)) provides that social security benefits are taxable only in the paying state — the U.S. Confirm the Indian reporting mechanics with an Indian CA.
- ☐ U.S. citizens and green card holders are taxed under the normal Form 1040 rules instead — up to 85% included in income — not the 25.5% flat withholding.

i WEP is gone — and that matters if you have an Indian pension

The Social Security Fairness Act, signed 5 January 2025, repealed the Windfall Elimination Provision and Government Pension Offset for benefits payable from January 2024 onward. WEP used to reduce U.S. benefits for people who also drew a pension from work not covered by U.S. Social Security — including foreign social-security pensions such as India's EPS. That reduction no longer applies. Repeal does not change the payments-abroad rules or the 25.5% withholding.

Part E — Medicare

- ☐ With 40 credits you generally qualify for premium-free Part A at 65 — but Medicare does not cover care in India. It is not an India health plan.
- ☐ Decide on Part B deliberately: paying premiums from India buys very little, while dropping it can trigger a late-enrolment penalty of about 10% for each 12 months you were eligible but not enrolled, added to your premium for life if you re-enrol later.
- ☐ Put robust India health insurance in force regardless (see Chapter 11).

⚠ Verify before you act

Social Security rules for people outside the U.S. differ by citizenship, country and family situation, and they change. Confirm your position with SSA, your Federal Benefits Unit, and a cross-border tax adviser before making an irreversible decision. A HISTORY THAT'S HARD TO REBUILD FROM INDIA

Credit & loans

Your U.S. credit score can't be exported and can be painful to rebuild if you ever return. Preserve a thread of it, and unwind loans on your terms.

- ☐ Keep at least one old, no-fee credit card open to help preserve U.S. credit history and length.
- ☐ Set autopay from a kept U.S. account and monitor for fraud while abroad.
- ☐ Download full credit reports from all three bureaus before you go.
- ☐ Pay off or plan the handling of auto loans, student loans and any personal lines.
- ☐ Close only what carries fees or risk; leaving a small footprint open is often worth it.
- ☐ Update contact info with lenders so nothing goes to collections unnoticed.

→ Why keep a U.S. card at all?

Length of history and available credit are common score factors. A dormant no-fee card may quietly protect both — useful if you return, travel, or keep U.S. ties.

U.S. PROPERTY, U.S. CAR — AND INDIA PROPERTY

Home & vehicle

Selling or renting real estate and disposing of a vehicle both run on multi-month timelines. Start early, and if you own property in India, plan that sale with the tax math up front.

In the U.S.

- ☐ Decide sell vs. rent your U.S. home; model it against how long you'd realistically keep it.
- ☐ Line up an agent or property manager; schedule repairs, staging or tenant screening now.
- ☐ Schedule utility, internet, and service terminations for just after your departure.
- ☐ Sell, ship or export the car; cancel registration and auto insurance on the right dates.
- ☐ If you'll keep the home as a rental, plan for continued U.S. tax filing on that income.

→ Decision Point — rent vs. buy/keep on a visa horizon

Standard calculators often assume 30 years. This one ties the decision to your real relocation horizon, including selling costs.

► Use the Rent vs. Buy \(visa\) calculator

Property in India

- ☐ Decide sell before or after the move, weighing capital-gains tax, TDS and repatriation rules.
- ☐ Gather title, chain documents, and establish your cost basis for both India and U.S. reporting.
- ☐ Understand the 54EC exemption route and the repatriation limits that may apply.

→ Decision Point — the true after-tax proceeds of an India sale

CLOSE GAPS; DON'T ABANDON YOUR HSA

Insurance & HSA

Coverage gaps during a move are risky, and your HSA is a long-term account you keep for life. Review every policy and every balance.

- ☐ Review health coverage for the transition (COBRA vs. marketplace vs. India plan) and the exact gap dates.
- ☐ Line up robust India health insurance before U.S. coverage lapses — pre-existing waiting periods matter.
- ☐ Review life, disability, auto, renters/home policies; cancel or convert on the right dates.
- ☐ Don't forget your HSA — you generally keep it after leaving the U.S.; understand how to spend it and the cross-border tax treatment.
- ☐ Check travel/medical cover for the actual move and the first weeks in India.

→ Decision Point — what happens to your HSA abroad?

Your Health Savings Account generally remains yours, even in India — but the way you spend it and its cross-border tax treatment need care.

I-407, GREEN CARDS, OCI

Immigration & status

Keep pristine copies of your entire immigration record, and make the green-card and OCI decisions deliberately — they can have long tails for you and your children.

- ☐ Preserve copies of I-94, I-797, visas, passport stamps, and green card (front and back).
- ☐ If surrendering a green card, understand Form I-407 and possible exit-tax exposure for long-term residents.
- ☐ If keeping a green card while abroad, know the re-entry and abandonment rules (and re-entry permit timing).
- ☐ For U.S.-citizen family members, check OCI eligibility and apply in good time — it can ease living in India long-term.
- ☐ Keep children's U.S. passports/CRBA and Indian documents together and current.
- ☐ Note current processing times so renewals and OCI applications don't bottleneck your move.

→ Decision Point — OCI for your U.S.-citizen children (and you)

OCI can make long-term life in India far smoother. Check who qualifies, then estimate cost and timeline before you fly.

DOCUMENTS, CONTINUITY, LONG-TERM LEGACY

Children & education

Schools in India ask for paperwork U.S. families don't always keep. Collect it now, plan the academic transition, and think ahead about assets your U.S.-raised kids may one day inherit.

- ☐ Collect transcripts, report cards, and completion/transfer certificates from current schools.
- ☐ Gather immunisation/vaccination records in a format Indian schools and doctors accept.
- ☐ Research Indian school boards (CBSE/ICSE/IB/IGCSE) and admission timelines for your city.
- ☐ Decide what to do with 529 plans — keep for future U.S. study, or repurpose within the rules.
- ☐ Keep children's U.S. and Indian identity documents together (passports, SSNs, and Aadhaar later where applicable).
- ☐ Plan the emotional/social transition, not just the logistics.

→ Decision Point — assets your U.S. kids may inherit in India

U.S.-raised children can struggle to manage inherited Indian property — paperwork, distance and disputes. Prepare early.

YOU CAN'T ALWAYS REQUEST THESE AFTER YOU LEAVE

Documents to download & keep

Once corporate and some U.S. institutional access ends, retrieving records from abroad can be painful. Build one encrypted archive before departure.

- ☐ Tax returns for 7 years, plus all W-2s, 1099s and supporting schedules.
- ☐ Bank and brokerage statements and full cost-basis exports.
- ☐ Property papers, closing documents, mortgage payoff letters.
- ☐ All insurance policies and declarations pages.
- ☐ Immigration file, IDs, birth/marriage certificates, and children's records.
- ☐ Employer letters, final payslips, and retirement-account details/logins.
- ☐ Store as encrypted PDFs in at least two places (cloud + local), with a shared index.

15

DON'T GET LOCKED OUT FROM 8,000 MILES AWAY

Digital accounts & security

Two-factor codes tied to a U.S. number can lock you out of critical accounts the moment you change your phone plan. Fix your digital identity before you move.

- ☐ Move MFA to an authenticator app and export/backup recovery codes for every critical login.
- ☐ Confirm access to email, banking, brokerage and government portals without a U.S. SMS number.
- ☐ Update your password manager, recovery email and trusted devices.
- ☐ Review and cancel subscriptions and auto-renewals you won't use from India.
- ☐ Keep a working U.S. number if needed (eSIM/port to a low-cost carrier) for account recovery.

PROTECT THE EXCHANGE-RATE MARGIN

Money transfers & repatriation

The headline “zero fee” on transfers often hides the real cost in the exchange-rate margin — and India's TCS can apply to certain outward remittances. Plan large moves deliberately.

- ☐ Compare providers on the full cost: flat fee + FX margin + any India TCS that may apply.
- ☐ Split or time large transfers around rate levels and your liquidity needs rather than moving everything at once.
- ☐ For repatriating India funds, prepare Form 15CA/15CB where applicable and confirm current limits.
- ☐ Keep Form 10F and a tax-residency certificate handy to help reduce excess TDS.
- ☐ Document the source of funds for every large transfer for both countries' records.

 On the $1M figure

The commonly referenced $1M annual NRO/property repatriation limit is subject to taxes paid, documentation, bank review, RBI/FEMA rules, and Form 15CA/15CB where applicable. Do not assume the full amount can be moved immediately without paperwork.

LAND, REGISTER, ACTIVATE

Your first 90 days in India

The first three months are a setup sprint. Get your identity, banking and payments live, then layer on insurance and investments.

- ☐ Update or apply for Aadhaar if eligible/required, keep PAN active, and complete PAN-Aadhaar or bank KYC requirements where applicable.
- ☐ Bring bank accounts fully live and enable UPI for daily payments.
- ☐ Coordinate any NRE/NRO redesignation with your bank based on FEMA residential status and documentation rules — not on income-tax status alone.
- ☐ Put local health insurance in force and register with local doctors/hospitals.
- ☐ Set up utilities, mobile (KYC), rental agreement, and school admissions.
- ☐ Begin any India investments deliberately — avoid rushing into products before you understand the tax.
- ☐ Keep your U.S. tax calendar visible; you may still have filings and refunds pending.

→ Keep the whole cross-border picture in one view

As U.S. and India accounts coexist, a single organiser can help keep beneficiaries, reporting and retirement aligned across both countries.

LEARN THESE BEFORE, NOT AFTER

Common (expensive) mistakes

Almost every costly return-to-India error is avoidable and appears in this playbook. Here are the ones that tend to hurt most.

- ☐ Cashing out a 401(k) early — tax, a possible penalty, and lost compounding, often needlessly.
- ☐ Closing all U.S. accounts and cards, then being unable to reopen or rebuild credit.
- ☐ Missing a required U.S. tax filing (final, dual-status, or ongoing), or FBAR/FATCA duties after leaving.
- ☐ Ignoring DTAA and foreign-tax-credit relief and paying tax twice.
- ☐ Mis-timing the move and missing a possible RNOR benefit for certain foreign income.
- ☐ Redesignating NRE/NRO accounts based on income-tax status alone instead of FEMA/bank rules.
- ☐ Failing to download records while access is still open.
- ☐ Buying Indian mutual funds while still a U.S. taxpayer without understanding the PFIC cost.
- ☐ Treating the my Social Security portal estimate as the benefit you'll receive — it usually assumes you keep working in the U.S. until full retirement age.
- ☐ Leaving the U.S. a few credits short of 40, or before the final year's credits post to your earnings record.
- ☐ Assuming a non-citizen spouse or child can collect on your record from India without meeting the separate 5-year residency test.
- ☐ Ignoring Form SSA-7162 — an unreturned proof-of-life form stops payments.
- ☐ Dropping Medicare Part B without pricing the lifetime late-enrolment penalty if you ever return.
- ☐ Losing the U.S. phone number and address that SSA, your bank and your custodian use to reach you.

Who should get professional help before acting

This playbook is enough to organize your move, but some situations deserve professional review:

- Green card holder for 8+ years or possible U.S. exit-tax exposure
- U.S. citizen or green card family moving permanently to India
- Large 401(k), IRA, Roth conversion, or HSA balances
- RSUs, stock options, ESPP, or concentrated employer stock
- Indian mutual funds while still a U.S. taxpayer
- India property sale, inherited property, or large NRO repatriation
- U.S. rental property after moving to India
- Business ownership in the U.S. or India
- U.S.-citizen children inheriting Indian assets
- Social Security payments abroad, or a non-citizen spouse/child claiming on your record
- Sticky U.S. state tax residency issues (e.g. CA, NY, NJ, IL)
